DAMAGED GOODS.

Dramatio Recital For Men Only to be Given at Colonial Theatre by Edward A. Mead.

Coming here under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association and the Federation of Churches, Edward A. Mead of New York is to give a recital of the play "Damaged Goods" at the Colonial theatre on Sunday afternoon at 3.30. The recital is for men only and admission is free.

This play by Eugene Brieux on sugenics is a study of the great red plague in its bearing upon marriage. Of Mr. Mead's recital General Sevretary H. E. Dodge of the Fall River Y. M. C. A. says:

Your "Damaged Goods" recital is a powerful argument for clean living.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Alice Joyce Today Appearing in Two Reel Drama, "Price of Silence." For all of the countless admirers

For all of the countless admirers of Alice Joyce the announcement of today's two reel feature will be a joy, for the drama selected is "The Price of Silence." This is one of the strongest plctures of the year, and will no doubt prove of unusual interest to all patrons of the Colonial. "The Man He Might Have Been," is a big Vitavranh drama featuring Leah Bedre graph drama featuring Leah Baird, William Humphries, and Leo De'aney, and "it's a Bear," is a roaring Edison comedy. The programme is completed by "The Banker's Rose," an ex-quisitely beautiful Biograph offering. Of especial interest to the people of Norwich Is the fact that Charlie Chaplin, the little man with the funny feet, will make his initial appearance at the Coionial theatre in a two reel comedy which puts all his previous efforts at fun making in the shade. Watch papers for the dates. The man-agement has also booked the cream of the Shubert and Brady Broadway at-tractions the first of which will be shown at an early date.

POETRY

THE DAY WHEN YOU'LL FORGER ME."

You call me sweet and tender names.
And softly smooth my treases,
and all the while my happy heart
Beats time to your carcases.
You love me in your tender way,
I answer as a let me;
But, ah! there comes another day,
The day when you'll forget me.

know that ev'ry fleeting hour is marked by thoughts I bring you know there dwells a subtle power. In the sweet s ngs I sing you. do not fear the darkest way with the dear a nabout me.

h. I only dread the day when you can live without me.

And still you call me tender names
And softly smooth my tresses,
and still my happy answering heart
feats time to your caresaes.

The fact me put that touch away
And classy your hands above me,

while is ask to de that day.

The day you will not love me.

You need not check the thoughts that With arkness wrapt about them, or gazing a 20 nest eyes.

My heart a 20 nest eyes.

My heart a 20 nest eyes.

You may,

Such chiding a 4 t at me.

thi no, I only fear the day,

The day when you'd forget me.
